Common Factors

- ✓ Top-of-the-market niches within much larger industries
- ✓ Satisfy a global marketplace
- ✓ Require the application of highest quality and expertise
- ✓ Employ relatively few people
- ✓ Generate enormous revenue per person employed

So why not Telephone Interpreting?

Interpreters-on-Call™

The Worldwide Platform for Telephone Interpreting

Why could the UK become a Worldwide centre of excellence for Telephone Interpreting?

- A global marketplace
- English most used “commercial” language in the world
- Ethnic diversity in UK
- A number of lucrative niche markets
- Existing pool of quality interpreters
- Excellent Technology Innovators

The Worldwide Platform for Telephone Interpreting

How big is the potential for quality Telephone Interpreting?

- Assume 6,000 professional Telephone Interpreters are available in the world and want to work 6 hours a day for 5 days a week
- 6,000 interpreters = 360,000 “interpreter minutes” an hour
- 6 hours a day = 2,160,000 “interpreter minutes” a day
- 5 days a week = 10,800,000 “interpreter minutes” a week
- Charged to customer @ £1.50 per minute = £16,200,000 per week

Total Revenue Potential = £842,400,000 per annum

If the Interpreters could earn on average £0.50 pence per minute they could be earning £43,000 + per annum

Challenges

- Technology barrier to entry
- Government influence
- Competition from overseas
- Interpreter training and accreditation
- Big player dominance

Interpreters-on-Call™

The Worldwide Platform for Telephone Interpreting

Technology barrier to entry

Today there is no barrier to any Language Service Provider delivering a worldwide telephone interpreting service.

All that you, your customers and your interpreters need is a standard browser and a telephone.

Interpreters-on-Call™

The Worldwide Platform for Telephone Interpreting

Government Influence

- Single biggest buyer of TI
- Focussed on “value for money”
- Commoditising the product
- Unaware of the potential global opportunity

The Worldwide Platform for Telephone Interpreting

Big player dominance

Don't try to compete on their ground

Pick a niche

Become THE experts in that niche

Differentiate yourselves

Treat your interpreters better

Deliver a different “customer” experience

LSP Differentiation?

“We recruit the best linguists”

“Only the very best interpreters”

“Strict quality policy”

“competitive and reliable service”

“Highly trained”

“broad range of expertise”

“Over 150 languages”

“choice of face-to-face or telephone interpreting services”

All good words. But you all say the same.
